

TREATY DEADLOCK REACHED IN SENATE

Each Side Wishes to Shift Responsibility in Event of Defeat.

TWO PROPOSALS MADE

Hitchcock and Lodge Confer With Vice-President as to Method of Procedure.

Special Despatch to THE SUN. WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—After two further efforts...

Senator Hitchcock (Neb.), Democratic leader, refused to consent to an agreement to vote on the terms laid down by Senator Lodge (Mass.), Republican leader.

Finally Senator Cummins (Ia.), as head of the Interstate Commerce Committee, warned the Senate that unless there were quick agreement and disposal of the treaty one way or the other he should demand that it be laid aside and the railroad bill taken up.

With no agreement in sight covering the preliminary to the decision the Senate resumed discussion of the treaty in a listless, halfhearted way.

Both Sides in the Open. It was obvious that they were coming at last to a showdown on certain delicate points of parliamentary procedure.

Whether any ray of light was introduced into the gloom as a result of this discussion was not made known. Mr. Lodge said later that the next move was up to the Democrats.

Mr. Lodge's proposal is that the Senate agree that, having reached this point and failed to ratify the Senate by unanimous consent, it then shall try the other tack and vote on a resolution of ratification without any reservations at all.

Mr. Hitchcock, knowing that on neither of these courses could the craft be navigated into the port of ratification, wanted an agreement by which every intermediate course might be tried in the hope of finding a breeze that would sweep him down to the one crucial vote.

he pointed out, was invented for the purpose of enabling the conclusion, not the interminable prolongation, of business.

Mr. Lodge's proposal, made last Friday, looked to limitation of debate and to beginning voting on all pending propositions on November 12, continuing till all were disposed of.

The proposal in turn was rejected by Mr. Lodge, but it had become apparent the Democrats must make some serious effort to demonstrate their good faith in constantly demanding an early vote.

or recess of the calendar day of Thursday, November 6. If it does not receive the necessary two-thirds vote the Senate shall consider on Friday, November 7, and Saturday, November 8, any resolutions of ratifications proposed by the minority of the Foreign Relations Committee and vote upon the same not later than 3 o'clock P. M. Saturday, November 8.

The situation politically is reasonably simple. The Democrats will furnish a large share of the votes to kill the Lodge proposal.

London, Nov. 3.—Viscount Milner, Secretary for the Colonies, has sent a telegram to the Governor of British Guiana denying that the British Government has any intention of selling British Guiana or any British West Indian colony.

A despatch from London August 3 quoted the National Review as saying that a suggestion that the British West Indies and British Guiana be ceded to the United States in part payment of Great Britain's war debt was seriously being considered on both sides of the Atlantic.

CLEMENCEAU READY FOR LAST BIG SPEECH

Brand Robs Premier of an Election Issue.

Paris, Nov. 3.—Premier Clemenceau to-morrow in Strasbourg, Alsace, will deliver what probably will be the last great political speech of his career.

Artiste Briand, the former Premier, has stolen a march upon Premier Clemenceau by a speech in which he advocated constitutional changes to give more authority to the President of the republic, and more strength to the executive arm.

two houses of Parliament. Clemenceau is expected to make such reforms a leading plank in the Government's political programme.

"This is imperative," said M. Briand, "that the President of France should assume a more efficacious and a wider field of authority."
